

Justice is 13-years old. He is an energetic, talkative, and imaginative child. He is very affectionate and loving towards others. Justice is very humorous and can easily make others laugh. He has a big heart and loves just about everyone. Justice loves to play with toys such as cars and trucks but especially loves his dinosaurs and superheroes. You can often find Justice using his imagination by building with Legos. Justice enjoys listening to music, singing, and dancing. Justice is not a fan of electronics and would much rather be outside playing.

Justice has experienced a lot of traumatic events in his life which have led to the needs that he has today. Justice attends a regular school- placed in a specialized classroom as he is diagnosed with Level-Two Autism. Justice has an Individualized Educational Plan. Within this plan, the school ensures that they meet all his educational needs. It has been suggested that Justice would do best in a single or two parent home with a lot of structure and consistency. Justice thrives in this sort of environment, along with love, patience, kindness, and affection. Justice receives supportive services to process his behaviors, as well as the separation and loss he has endured. Justice's forever family must be open to continuing supportive services, as well as working with mental health and educational providers to ensure that all his special needs are met. Justice will need support and commitment in following through with recommendations that are made for him. If you are interested in learning more about Justice, we look forward to hearing from you.
